16-07-2026

For the seventh consecutive year, the postal and parcel delivery company will be the Official Logistics Operator of the cycling race, which will be held over 21 stages and 40 locations, including those in Monaco and Andorra. A total of 25 tractor units, 3 semi-trailer trucks, 5 rigid trucks, as well as a rigid crane truck, a refrigerated truck, and 18 Correos flatbed trailers will transport all the equipment needed for La Vuelta 2026, between August 22 and September 13. The company will once again present the prestigious Best Team Award, which recognizes the best team of each stage wearing the Correos red bib.

Madrid, July 16, 2026 – Correos will once again be in charge of the logistical deployment for La Vuelta 26 , which will take place between August 22 and September 13. Following the agreement signed last year by the president of Correos, Pedro Saura, and the CEO of Unipublic, Javier Guillén, the postal and parcel delivery company has secured its position as the Official Logistics Operator of La Vuelta , at least until 2027. This marks the seventh consecutive year that Correos has collaborated with the race to carry out this major logistical challenge.

Correos will be responsible for transporting more than 400 tons of the necessary equipment to ensure the race can proceed smoothly across its 21 stages and 40 venues , including those in Monaco and Andorra. The company will provide La Vuelta with 25 tractor units, 3 semi-trailer trucks, 5 rigid trucks, one rigid crane truck, one refrigerated truck, and 16 flatbed trailers . In total, 35 logistics vehicles will travel more than 3,289 kilometers loaded with the essential equipment needed for the race.

This logistical deployment includes the fences, signage and all the material that forms part of the various mobile finish infrastructures , such as the podium, the press room, the signature control, the facilities for carrying out anti-doping or the kitchen truck, among others.

Correos will once again be a main sponsor of La Vuelta 26, sponsoring the team classification , which awards the best team of each stage and, at the end of La Vuelta, the best team in the general classification. This ranking is established by adding the three best individual times of the riders on each team, with the team with the lowest total time taking first place.

As in previous editions, the best team of each stage will go up to the podium at the sign-in area daily to collect their award before the start of the next stage. Similarly, the team leading the overall standings will wear a red bib with the Correos logo each day, distinguishing its riders as members of the peloton's top team.

Correos' collaboration with La Vuelta will also be visible this year in the Vuelta Park at each stage, where the Correos tent will be located. Inside, there will be a quiz with two roulette wheels and questions about Correos products (Correos Market, Correos Frío, Sustainability, Correos Logistics Challenge at La Vuelta, etc.) with the aim of generating greater awareness of the products, services and actions carried out by the company.

With the extension until 2027 of the collaboration agreement with Unipublic - the company that organizes La Vuelta - Correos reinforces its commitment and support to Spanish sport, thus consolidating its presence in one of the most emblematic sporting events in our country.
