CTT â€“ Correios de Portugal completed this Tuesday, July 29, the acquisition of Decopharma, a company specialized in logistics solutions for the pharmaceutical and healthcare industry.

With this transaction, CTT strengthens its position as an e-commerce logistics operator, expanding its offering to include comprehensive logistics solutions across the entire value chain—including products that require specific storage and transportation conditions.

João Bento, CEO of CTT, states that "the integration of Decopharma into CTT reinforces our mission to offer excellent logistics solutions in all areas, including the pharmaceutical and healthcare sectors. With over two decades of experience, Decopharma ensures a significant degree of specialization in our service portfolio. Therefore, we are delighted to welcome this excellent team to the CTT group."

Decopharma operates in two main segments: on the one hand, in the logistics of over-the-counter (OTC) medicines, nutritional supplements, cosmetics and health products, and also medicines for veterinary use; on the other, in the area of medical devices, namely hospital equipment, consumables and laboratory products.

With around 30 employees, the company offers a complete portfolio of logistics services, from goods receipt, storage, and quality control to order processing, preparation, shipping, and distribution in Portugal.
